Thomas Moulton was a farm laborer living in Rochester N. H. England. He and his family were converted to the L. D. S. Church and emigrated to Utah in 1856. His son Charles was born on shipboard while they were crossing the Irish Channel. A fire on board ship destroyed much of the food supply and they were forced to a diet of sea biscuits and rice. The family had to leave a trunk of clothing in New York and a trunk of supplies in Iowa because of their inability to transport them. They were members of the ill-fated Willie Hand Cart Company. They suffered severe physical hardship because of lack of food and because of the extremely cold weather: e. g. 14 buried in a shallow common grave. Had it not been for aid sent from Salt Lake City, all would have perished. Our family left England in May, 1856 and arrived in Salt Lake City in November of the same year. After three weeks in Salt Lake City they moved to Provo where the father labored as a farmer. With his family he moved to Heber in the Spring of 1860. They helped to pioneer the Heber Valley. He built the rock home now owned by Maud Witt Camp-bell on 2nd North and 2nd West. He died at the home of his son John E. Moulton
